First Call Environmental, a Virginia based 24-hour emergency contractor is currently expanding to Mason, Ohio and is seeking hard working individuals to join the local response team. As a member of First Call, you will be expected to maintain your availability with your local manager. When available, you may be requested to respond as part of a team to mitigate the release or potential release of hazardous and/or non-hazardous chemicals. Additionally, there may be opportunities for scheduled projects as well as large scale disaster response on a national level as part of the team.

First Call Environmental offers highly competitive pay and tremendous growth opportunity to highly motivated individuals. First Call prefer those with emergency services experience, however they will train the correct individuals.
